Introduction to the survey

Adverse conditions related to ergonomic issues have been identified as potential disrupters of translation performance. In a study financed by the Swiss National Foundation, "Cognitive and Physical Ergonomics of Translation", researchers at the Zurich University of Applied Sciences (ZHAW) are investigating translators' workplaces and workplace-related health issues.

This questionnaire is set up in six blocks of short items and questions. We assume that it should only take about 20 minutes to complete.

You are helping us in a study that aims at improving the working conditions of translators in the long term. All answers will be treated confidentially. The survey will be closed at the end of 2014.

Thank you for participating!

1) Informed consent

The first item concerns your informed consent about providing answers in this questionnaire. Please read the following and indicate whether you agree and would like to continue with the items and questions.

"I freely and voluntarily consent to be a participant in the research project "Cognitive and Physical Ergonomics of Translation". I understand I will not receive monetary payment for my participation.

I understand that the purpose of this research is to investigate translators' workplaces and workplacerelated health issues, that I am providing information about myself and my workplace, and that I am free to discontinue my participation at any time.

I understand that all my responses are completely anonymous: no identifying information about me or my workplace will be captured unless I voluntarily offer personal or contact information in any of the comment fields. In addition, I understand that my responses will be combined with those of many others and summarized in a report to further protect my anonymity.

I also understand that if I would like more information about this research or have any questions, I can contact Prof. Maureen Ehrensberger-Dow, ehre@zhaw.ch."
